FISHER INDICTED IN DALTON AS SLAYER

DALTON, Oct. 23.—Ira Fisher, the man who produced the latest sensation in the Frank case, was today indicted for murder by the Grand Jury in session here.

The bill of indictment charges him with killing his brother-in-law, Dug Steele.

Steele was found dead beside the Southern Railway tracks near the northern limits of Dalton about five years ago. It appeared that a train had passed over him, for his head was cut off and the body mangled, but owing to an absence of blood it was thought he had been killed and placed by the track to hide the crime.

This caused the coroner's jury to prolong the investigation for several days. A verdict that Steele was killed by a train was finally returned because of inability to find any evidence pointing to anyone as his slayer.

One Grand Jury investigated the death, but took no action. The affair was then forgotten until the present Grand Jury, besieged by rumors that Steele was murdered, reopened the investigation and got enough evidence to warrant the indictment of Fisher.

Grabs Pet as Father Carries Her to Safety—Mother Rescues Baby.

Saved from death by her father, R. M. Cason, who carried her through blinding smoke and falling timbers to the sidewalk when their home at No. 47 Alaska avenue caught fire Thursday morning at 3 o'clock, 3-year-old Margaret Cason is happy because she rescued her pet cat, Bessie, from the flames.

Dangling, half choked, from his arms as her father plunged through the smoke-filled hallway, the little girl saw her kitten leaning, dazed, against the wall. She slipped from her father's arms and, seizing the cat, ran out into the street, uninjured, and with her beloved pet clasped close to her breast.

Her father followed her a moment later, half strangled by the smoke.

Behind Mr. Cason and the little girl Mrs. Cason struggled bravely, carrying her 2-month-old baby, Richard, whom she snatched from his cradle when she was awakened by the smell of smoke and the glare of the flames. Mrs. Cason's dress was scorched, and both she and the baby were half strangled by the dense smoke.

None of the members of the Cason family were injured. E. M. Buge.

HOWARD INSISTS ON CONGRESS PROBE

WILL FORCE KING SLAYER U.S. PRISON INQUIRY

Congressman Asserts Truth of Accusations Against U. S. Warden Must Come Out.

Declaring that should the Department of Justice refuse to act on the charges of unfit conditions at the Federal prison, made by Julian Hawthorne and others, he would carry the matter into the National Congress, Congressman William Schley Howard in a statement Thursday reiterated his intention to force a full investigation.

Mr. Howard stated that he would introduce a resolution into Congress upon his return to Washington asking the appointment of a Congressional committee to carry on this investigation. He avowed that this was demanded in justification to humanity, if the charges proved true, and for the exoneration of Warden Meyer, if the accusations are untrue.

Senator Hoke Smith, who made a tour of inspection of the prison Wednesday, refused to make a statement Thursday. He stated that he had formed no opinion so far which he would make public on the sensational allegations, and would not say what his action would be when he returned to Washington.

Mr. Howard's statement follows:

Charges Serious.
"Reputable people have made charges as to the conduct of the Federal prison. These charges in their character are serious. Maltreatment of the prisoners is alleged in that they are not sufficiently fed and that their physical condition is being impaired by the lack of nutritious food and proper medical attention.

"The Department of Justice, through the press, has stated that these are statements made by persons who have no knowledge of the conditions at the prison—that they are false in their entirety.

"Fully realizing that incarceration of those who violate the law is absolutely necessary for the safety of society and the detriment of crime, and that those who fall into the toils of the law should not have furnished them the comforts of life while serving their sentences, and that punishment in some form or other is necessary for the maintenance of discipline in this prison, I have refrained from giving to the public who are interested from a standpoint of humanity in these prisoners my views of the present conditions.

Congress Entitled to Truth.
"Congress is entitled to the whole truth about the administration of affairs in this institution. If the Department of Justice does not make a full, free and impartial investigation, I shall introduce a resolution upon my return to Washington, asking for the appointment of a Congressional committee to visit this prison and ascertain the whole truth. If these men are underfed Congress should know it; if the statements made in the local press are untrue, the public should know it in justice to the warden and other officials in charge.

"If conditions are brought about by insufficient appropriations for subsistence the sooner it is known the better it will be for the men confined. If discipline is lacking the cause for its existence should be determined and speedily corrected, if the most drastic methods have to be resorted to.

"So far as I am concerned, this is all I have to say until I speak with the authority of Congress behind me and those with whom I shall be associated."

KEEP'S UP NERVE

Farm Hand Calmly Aids in Picking Jury to Determine His Fate.

GRAYS, Oct. 23.—The finding of King's dead body at 2 o'clock in the morning, the nervousness of Wilburn on the day after this discovery, the unlawful relations of Mrs. King and Wilburn, and an alleged confession by Wilburn constituted the greater part of the evidence before the jury by the State in the first day of the trial of Nick Wilburn, a farm hand, in Jones County Superior Court, for the murder of James King, a wealthy Jones County farmer, last December.

It was testified that Wilburn as a member of the search party did not want the party to go in the direction of the place where the body was found. This was elicited in the testimony of Dr. C. A. White and J. A. Gordon.

Jesse Barber, a negro, who was arrested for the murder, but afterward released, testified that Wilburn admitted to him that he (Wilburn) had shot King, and threatened his (Barber's) life if the fact was disclosed. Barber said, on cross-examination, that Wilburn wept like a baby while telling how he had killed King. Barber also testified that twice he had seen Mrs. King and Wilburn in compromising positions while King was away.

Confession Causes Fight.
There was a prolonged wrangle between Attorney Cooper, for the defense, and Solicitor Pottle over the latter's right to tell the jury in his opening statement what he alleged Wilburn had confessed. The judge upheld his right to outline Wilburn's alleged confession.

Attorney Cooper also objected to the presence in the courtroom of Detective Moore, who obtained Wilburn's confession. He argued that Moore should be excluded along with the other witnesses. Moore was allowed to remain, however.

The State has summoned 29 witnesses and the defense 14.

It is hardly likely that a verdict will be reached before Saturday morning.

Pleads "Not Guilty."
When arraigned for trial, Wilburn, attired in a new suit and freshly shaved, stood up, smiling, and pleaded "not guilty." In a clear, resonant voice. He aided his attorneys considerably in the selection of the jury, no less than twenty being struck up on his suggestion.

From her cell in the county jail, which is connected with the courthouse by a "bridge of sighs," Mrs. King, who is nervously awaiting her trial, can look into the courtroom, even obtaining a glimpse of the jury.

Take Wilburn in Auto.
Apprehensive lest the strong feeling which was so manifest at the time of the killing had not subsided, Sheriff Roberts took extra precaution in bringing Wilburn from Macon to Grays. Wilburn was handcuffed and seated in an automobile between the Sheriff and Detective Moore, who ferreted out the crime and obtained a confession from the prisoner. The party left Macon at 7:30 o'clock and reached Grays just a few minutes before court opened and just as the train from Macon arrived. The crowd was expecting Wilburn on the train, and there were few at the courthouse to observe the prisoner as he was taken out of the auto and into the jail.

CRUSHING ASSAULT ON CONDUCT OF TRIAL IS MADE IN FRANK'S FIGHT

Reserving until the last their most crushing assault upon the manner in which the Frank trial was conducted and upon the alleged bias of the jurors that tried the accused man, the lawyers for the defense went into the hearing for retrial Thursday afternoon armed with affidavits swearing that Juror A. H. Henslee was in Albany, Ga., on the date he has declared he was not there, and when he is said to have uttered his opinion of Frank's guilt before the trial.

Henslee met the charge that he had expressed in Albany his belief that Frank killed Mary Phagan by the declaration that he was not in that city at the time the utterances were alleged to have been made.

Attorney Rosser announced Thursday afternoon that he would submit to Judge Roan incontrovertible proof that Henslee's name was on the register at a hotel in Albany and under a date corresponding to the time in question.

As another proof that the juror was misrepresenting the facts of the case, the lawyer promised also to submit affidavits from three persons who had sworn that they saw Henslee in Albany at this time.

The forenoon session was practically divided between a determined and uniformly successful struggle by the defense to incorporate the admission of every fragment of character testimony against Frank as a reason upon which to argue for a new trial, and a squabble over the testimony of E. H. Pickett, who declared that Minola McKnight had told him that her salary in the Frank home was raised immediately after the crime, that she was given a new hat by Mrs. Frank, and that she was instructed by Mrs. Emil Selig, Mrs. Frank's mother, to say nothing to anyone about the murder.

A long debate also arose over the contention of the defense that the judge erred in letting in the testimony of Harlee Branch, a newspaper man, who made an estimate of the time that it required Jim Conley to re-enact in the factory the part he asserted he had in the Phagan tragedy.

Objection to Testimony.
The objection to this testimony was on the ground that it was a pure conclusion; that it was impossible to take a witness to the factory and have him indicate accurately how long it required for him to do one thing or another; that Branch did not pretend to have timed the performance, and that his testimony would not have been admissible even if he had; that Conley's performance at the factory was not the same as he described it on the stand at the trial; that the negro described it entirely differently in many particulars; that it could not help the jury for Conley to illustrate his last affidavit when he said on the stand that much of it was a lie and didn't happen at all, and that this evidence was of another transaction and not binding on the defendant. The reason was approved by Judge Roan.

Attorneys Rosser and Arnold maintained that Pickett's testimony should be allowed to stand as a reason to be argued for a new trial, in that it was palpably immaterial evidence employed to impeach the testimony of the McKnight woman. This ground was approved after slight revision by Judge Roan.

Grand Jury Finds 19 True Bills, One 'No' Bill, in Hour

The Fulton County Grand Jury returned nineteen true bills and one "no" bill in a record-breaking session lasting a little more than an hour Thursday morning.

The most important indictment returned was that of W. M. Heard, of Jacksonville, Fla., charged with snatching a purse containing $14 from Mrs. E. D. Griffin on the night of October 13.

Heard told a pathetic story of a wife and starving babies when he was arraigned before Recorder Broyles about a week ago. He was bound over to the Grand Jury under $1,000 bond, which he failed to make. N. A. Garner, assistant to Mr. Dorsey, had charge of the proceedings Thursday.

Court Admits Confession Over
Protest of Prisoner's Counsel.
County Treasurer Recites It.

ATLANTA, Oct. 24.—When the trial of Nick Wilburn, charged with the murder of James King, was resumed this morning, a marked change in the position of the defense was predicted. Attorney John R. Cooper suggested that he would probably plead self-defense for his client, bringing out the features in Wilburn's own story. The first witnesses summoned by the defense were some of the men who testified yesterday for the State. A substantial effort was made by the defense yesterday afternoon to keep from the jury the confession made by Wilburn on the night of his arrest, while he was being hurried through the woods to Macon to escape mob violence last December. It was argued by Attorney Cooper that the confession was wrong from the defendant by threats and intimidation. Judge Park allowed the confession to go to the jury, as it was related by County Treasurer Etheridge.

DORSEY PLANNING TO MEET NEW ATTACK ON CONLEY'S TESTIMONY

Only an agreement on a few disputed points remained to be accomplished on the resumption of the hearing on a new trial for Leo M. Frank Friday. The entire 115 reasons had been reviewed at the close of Thursday afternoon's session, but several of them were left unapproved to await an investigation of the records of the case by Solicitor Dorsey. The arguments were to start immediately on the approval of all the reasons.

Two of the reasons, the alleged bias of A. H. Henkle and Marcus Johnenning, jurors, were held in abeyance until Judge Ross had looked over the affidavits of the defense and the counter-affidavits submitted by the Solicitor. The judge intimated that an approval of these as reasons on which to argue for a new trial would be tantamount to the granting of the motion, in that an acceptance of the charges of bias as facts automatically would furnish warrant for a new trial without argument by the attorney.

Frank's lawyers sprang a surprise in the last of their long string of reasons, holding that by the State's theory Jim Conley was an accomplice and that his testimony therefore could not be accepted except as corroborated by the circumstances or by another witness. The Solicitor remarked that he had not considered this proposition but would be prepared to talk on it later in the hearing.

The reason charged that the court erred in not instructing the jury that if they believed from the evidence that Conley watched for Frank at the pencil factory door, and that his purpose in watching was to protect Frank in the commission of acts which constitute a felony in the State of Georgia, then Conley, as to any alleged murder committed in the progress of any such attempt to commit the acts that were described by the negro, would be an accomplice, and the jury could not give him evidence unless he was corroborated by the facts and circumstances or by another witness.

The announcement that the temper of the crowds along the courthouse on the closing days of the trial was such that grave fears were entertained for the safety of Frank was addressed by the editors of the three Atlanta newspapers, militia officials and the chief of the police department, and urged, it was claimed, every precaution for the safeguarding of the prisoner. Against whom there was unmistakably hostile sentiment.

A warm dispute arose over this contention, during which it developed that the court was adjourned in the midst of Dorsey's concluding argument Saturday noon to permit the intense feeling to subside, and that later Frank's presence at the rendering of the verdict was waived by him. The verdict was waived by him at the suggestion of Judge Ross himself. Judge Ross had been addressed by the editors of the three Atlanta newspapers, militia officials and the chief of the police department, and urged, it was claimed, every precaution for the safeguarding of the prisoner. Against whom there was unmistakably hostile sentiment.

The hostile sentiment against Frank was emphasized in many of the reasons advanced for a new trial. To most of them Judge Ross certified as they were submitted. The trial was taken from its usual, and note made of every outbreak inside and outside the courtroom. The ovations received by Solicitor Dorsey were described minutely, and the occasions of applause and cheering inside the courtroom when Dorsey scored a point were stressed repeatedly.

Attention also was called to the jeers and derisive laughter that met many of the arguments of Frank's lawyers. From first to last, Frank's counsel contended, it was most evident that the defendant was obtaining the fair and impartial trial guaranteed by law. The jury was coaxed into giving a verdict of guilty, and the defendant was obtaining the fair and impartial trial guaranteed by law. The jury was coaxed into giving a verdict of guilty, and the defendant was obtaining the fair and impartial trial guaranteed by law.

"Admiral Was Sometimes a Gentleman, and Sometimes Vildest of Vile," Says Woman's Defender.

PLYMOUTH, MASS., Oct. 24.—Attorney Francis T. Gowen, junior counsel for Mrs. Eaton, widow of Admiral Eaton, in his opening address for the defense rebuffed hints of the story which the accused woman is to tell to the jury from the witness stand.

"We will show you that there was no friction, no misunderstanding on the day when the Admiral was taken sick," he said. "We will show that many misstatements made by Mrs. Eaton about the Admiral have many foundations and facts; that they were not intended for harm and that they were not hallucinations."

"We will show you that he had a double life, that sometimes he was a gentleman, other times he was the vilest of the vile. We will show by the testimony of the physicians who attended his first wife and himself in Washington, D. C., that while his first wife was sick and on her deathbed, this man was drunk from morning until night and from night till morning, and although in the very hour of the crisis, he was in no condition. In addition to this habit, we will show from the men who served with him on the battleship Massachusetts that he had a drug habit."

WILBURN TO PLEAD SELF DEFENSE

Court Admits Confession Over Protest of Prisoner's Counsel. County Treasurer Recites It.

GRAYS, Oct. 24.—When the trial of Nick Wilburn, charged with the murder of James King, was resumed this morning, a marked change in the position of the defense was predicted.

Attorney John R. Cooper suggested that he would probably plead self-defense for his client, bringing out this feature in Wilburn's own story.

The first witness summoned by the defense yesterday afternoon was kept from the jury the confession made by Wilburn on the night of his arrest, while he was being hurried through the woods to Macon to escape mob violence last December. It was argued by Attorney Cooper that the confession was written from the defendant by threats and intimidation.

Judge Park allowed the confession to go to the jury, as it was recited by County Treasurer Etheridge.

Confession to Etheridge.
Mr. Etheridge said:

"When Nick offered to make a confession I asked him if what he had to say was voluntary, and he told me it was of his own free will, and that he had been wanting to tell it all day. I offered him no inducement or hope of reward."

He told us that Mrs. King was the cause of it all. I asked him how, and he repeated that in March, 1912, Mrs. King called him into the kitchen and threw her arms around his neck and hugged and kissed him, and from that time on they became intimate.

Later, she wanted him to kill her husband, he said. Wilburn told us that Mrs. King had suggested that he either put poison in some whiskey or shoot him some time while he was out hunting. Wilburn said that on the day of the killing he went to the house, and finding Mrs. King there, asked where Mr. King was and Mrs. King told him her husband had gone to the woods to shoot birds.

Wilburn said that he followed King into the woods, finally locating him by his shooting. When I met up with him and began talking with him, King handed me his gun, and walked away a few feet. Wilburn said, and taking his gun I pointed it a half circle, remarking that I believed I could kill some birds, when Mr. King looked around as I had the gun on a line with him and fired. Mr. King staggered backward, and said, 'Nick, don't do that again.' Then he walked a few feet and fell dead. I followed him and placed the gun by the body."

When cross-examined, Mr. Etheridge said he did not tell Wilburn that a mob was pursuing him. He said that after Wilburn confessed he cried and begged him to not let them (the mob) touch his neck.

Bank Burglary Is Foiled When Police Arrive Just in Time

An attempt to rob the Traders and Farmers Bank, on Peters street, was foiled at 4 o'clock Friday morning by the timely appearance of Policemen Perry and King. On their regular rounds of an hour before the policemen found all well about the bank. On their return they discovered a window in the rear piled open and a burglar's jimmy lying on the ground. In the basement of the bank a light was burning.

A close search failed to reveal the presence of a burglar, and it is believed the culprit fled upon the officers' approach. Policemen searched that end of town without success.

Drowns in Cistern Under Her Kitchen

CHARLESTON, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Mary Melroy, 62 years old, was found drowned in a cistern under her kitchen by her son and daughter, who missed her at bedtime.

Upon investigation they discovered a broken place in the kitchen floor, and further search revealed the dead body in the water seven feet deep. A trapdoor gave way under her weight.

Youth, on Verge of Suicide, Dies of Joy

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—After making plans for suicide and writing a farewell note to his sweetheart with whom he had quarreled, Thomas Payne, aged 29 years, a Mississippi youth, in a boarding house here, receiving a letter from the girl, ending a long separation.

Mr. Payne was overjoyed by the letter that he died of apoplexy.

Judges Women by Powder on Faces

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 24.—Henry G. Platt, a detective in the tenderloin section here, says he judges the character of women by the amount of powder on their faces.

"Too much powder on a woman's face indicates lack of morals," he said.

Alimony Denied to Home Town Hater

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 24.—Because she did not like the town of Volante, N. J., where her husband had decided to live, Mrs. Agnes Keller applied to the court here to compel her husband to give her alimony. Her application was refused.

I Am The Want Ad Man

For nearly an hour the attorneys wrangled over the issue of the word "employed" in one of the reasons. The defense held that the court had erred in permitting over the objection of the plaintiff the testimony of Detective Black that Frank had employed counsel the Monday morning after the crime.

Dorsey objected to the wording, saying that there was nothing in the case to warrant the use of "employed."

The reason charged that the court erred in not instructing the jury that if they believed from the evidence that Conley watched for Frank at the penitentiary door, and that his purpose in watching was to protect Frank in the commission of acts which constitute a felony in the State of Georgia, then Conley, as by any alleged murder committed in the progress of any such attempt to commit the acts that were described by the facts and circumstances of or by another witness.

The announcement that the temper of the crowds about the courthouse on the closing days of the trial was such that grave fears were entertained for the safety of Frank was one of the interesting disclosures of the hearing. Attorney Luther Ross, chief counsel for Frank, asserted that they would have "eaten the defendant alive" if he had gone out among them on the day the verdict was rendered, particularly if an acquittal had been brought in.

Take Advantage of Absence.
Solicitor Dorsey contended that the defense had waived the presence of Frank in the courtroom at the time the verdict was rendered and

SOLICITOR REQUIRES FACTOR EMPLOYEES TRIED TO BLOCK PROBE

Solicitor General Dorsey repeated at the hearing on a new trial for Leo M. Frank Friday his charges that friends of Frank and employees at the pencil factory had so concealed and withheld evidence during the murder mystery as to be conclusive indication that the defendant was the guilty person.

The defense was seeking to maintain its contention that the court was in error for allowing testimony and argument along this line when the Solicitor reiterated his belief. He said that the apparent unanimity with which friends and employees withheld information from the detectives made it convincing to his mind that there was a virtual conspiracy to protect the defendant.

"I hold that I have a right to state what I thought," he declared to Judge Roan.

"Maybe the Solicitor had no rights in the matter, but I think he had. Let them put in their reasons exactly what I said. I'm willing to stand by it."

The hearing was delayed considerably by continuous squabbles over minor points in the wording and phrasing of the defense's reasons.

Attorney Arnold and Solicitor Dorsey, as soon as the hearing on a new trial resumed Friday morning, were embroiled in an argument over the complete silence with which the court's decision was received by the stenographers who had entered the objections of the defense during the trial.

Arnold maintained that the stenographers in many instances had entered in the record only the first objection made by a lawyer for the defense and had disregarded the additional objections that might have been made during the subsequent argument.

Attorneys argued question over and over.

Starnes and Black Present.
Detectives Starnes and Black, who were assigned to Solicitor Dorsey to work under his direction on the investigation into the Phagan murder mystery, have been in constant attendance since the hearing began Wednesday.

Frank's lawyers sprang a surprise in the last of their long string of reasons, holding that by the State's theory Jim Conley was an accomplice and that his testimony therefore could not be accepted except as corroborated by the circumstances or by another witness. The Solicitor remarked that he had not considered this proposition, but would be prepared to talk on it later in the hearing.

The reason charged that the court erred in not instructing the jury that if they believed from the evidence that Conley watched for Frank at the penitentiary door, and that his purpose in watching was to protect Frank in the commission of acts which constitute a felony in the State of Georgia, then Conley, as by any alleged murder committed in the progress of any such attempt to commit the acts that were described by the facts and circumstances of or by another witness.

BIG FIRE IN MARKET STREET Huerta Seizes U. S. Liner; Diaz Regs Help Dorsey Builds Up Defense for Jurors

50 GIRLS IN FIRE ZONE IN PARK

Half-Million Property Damage
Threatened as Flames Sweep
Brady-Miller Stables.

Fire, which threatened to destroy business buildings worth more than half a million dollars, defied the efforts of the entire fire fighting force of Atlanta Friday afternoon and crumbled into ruins the structure at Brady and Market streets, formerly occupied by the Brady-Miller stables.

An immense crowd, estimated as high as 10,000 persons, was attracted to the scene and firemen had a hard time keeping the curious out of the danger zone.

The flames, bursting out of the first building, unexpectedly and so though may have been raging for some time, had gained tremendous headway when the fire engine arrived. It looked for a time as though the Atlanta Envelope Company, the Capital City Chair
Company, the Capital City Tobacco Company and the Capital City Cigar
Company all were doomed.

As the fire menaced the plant of the Atlanta Envelope Company, a three-story building, 50 girls employed in the building fled in terror to the exits. Panic was threatened at this time, as the plant quickly filled with smoke, but all the young women were believed to have reached the street safely.

A general fire alarm was issued as soon as the seriousness of the situation was apparent, and thousands in the points flocked to the scene, attracted by the shrieking of the fire engines. Traffic was demolished as the engines rushed through the heart of the city.

The fire started on the south side of Brady Miller Building and the walls were crumbling within a few minutes. Chief Cummings was at a loss to determine the cause.

Streams of water were turned on the burning structure, and after 40 minutes of hard work, it was believed the blaze was well under control.

Plenty of Work, Little Money, Wiley Rules For Pure Food Baby

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Dr. Harvey Wiley, father of the pure-food baby, who has just built a pure-food house in which to raise the pure-food baby, gives out some of the axioms of health that will protect the general right living to his boy, as follows:
"Government has a lot of effect on character and my boy is going to have a beautiful view from his home as his life will be beautiful. He is going to have plenty of pure air, plenty of pure food all the time, plenty of clean exercise."
"Plenty of work when he grows up."
"Fortunately, not much money at any time."

HUERTA NOT TO ACCEPT OFFERED

Promises Nations He Will Not Take Presidency, and Assures
His Good Faith.

FRIDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS
IN THE MEXICAN SITUATION.
Felix Diaz, Presidential candidate, fearing Huerta, appeals to United States Consul Canada at Vera Cruz for protection, which is given him.

Huerta seizes the Ward liner Morro Castle, with Mrs. Lind, wife of President Wilson's special envoys, aboard, just as it is ready to sail for Havana. On protest by Mr. Lind, the vessel is released several hours later.

Secretary of State Bryan announces official promise from Huerta that should he be elected President Sunday he will not accept.

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 24.—Felix Diaz, candidate for President of Mexico, has appealed to the United States for protection from agents of General Huerta, and this has been promised him by Consul Canada.

He was escorted late last night by Consul Canada and one American marine to the German Hotel, which is next door to the American Consulate.
In case an attempt is made to arrest Diaz at the hotel, he can escape over the roof to the building which is American territory and which is protected by the United States flag.

The appeal of Diaz was made to Consul Canada when the Mexican Presidential candidate learned that he was to be arrested and shipped out of the country in order to prevent his being a candidate in Sunday's election.

American Liner Held By Huerta; Peril Grows.

SPECIAL CABLE TO THE ATLANTA GEORGIAN.
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—The peril which has confronted American residents in Mexico was increased today.
As a result of the receipt of news from Vera Cruz that the Mexican gunboat Zaragoza had seized the Ward liner Morro Castle, a United States ship, and the preparations which the American Consulate in Vera Cruz has made to protect Felix Diaz, the hatred of the Mexicans toward citizens of the United States has been fanned to a higher pitch than at any time since the break between the Mexican and United States Governments occurred.

The Government's explanation of the detention of the Morro Castle is in a case of long standing. Government officials declared that the ship was carrying arms and that it was in violation of the laws of the country. It is significant that the ship was ready to sail for Havana.

The real reason for the hold-up of the vessel, however, is believed to be the fact that eight of the thirteen members of the Vera Cruz State Legislature had taken passage on the ship for Havana, because of threats made against them for opposing Huerta's policies. Their flight, if successful, would have been the reason why the Mexican Government refused to allow the ship to leave.

WILBUR TO SOON KNOW HIS FATE

Arguments Begin With No Direct Testimony From Defense in Jones County Slaying.

MACON, Oct. 24.—A Jones County jury will decide late this afternoon or tonight the fate of James Wilbur, the murderer of James King, the farmer with whose wife he was infated.

The arguments will close this afternoon before 6 o'clock. Attorney Dean Newman opened for the defense this morning and was followed by Attorneys Jackson and Johnson for the State. This afternoon Solicitor Potter will conclude for the prosecution and Attorney Cooper for the defense.

A sudden change was made today in the plans of the defense when Wilbur decided that he did not want to take the stand and tell the jury about the killing of King.

No Testimony by Defense.
Wilbur had carefully planned a statement, asserting self-defense and denying the confessions, but his counsel advised him that there was no element of self-defense in his case as indicated by the testimony. Wilbur then decided that he had better remain silent. Consequently, the defense did not offer any direct testimony and allowed the evidence submitted by the State to go to the jury unchanged except for cross-examination.

Attorney Cooper made a motion for a mistrial upon the "conveying of court on the ground that W. L. Mildred, one of the jurors, was related to Mrs. King, but he was overruled.

Jury's Trial Monday.

Judge Park announced from the bench that the trial of Mrs. King start Monday morning. Her attorney, State Senator W. D. McNeill, of Macon, states that he will positively take the stand.

"She has nothing to hide," he said,
"and I am confident that when the jurors hear her remarkable statement, the most remarkable that I have ever heard, they will unanimously find her not guilty."

Mrs. King will not offer any witness in her behalf, unless character witnesses are called. Mr. McNeill has not decided yet whether or not he will pursue this course, but he believes now that he will simply submit her statement to the jury.

The most damaging testimony that the State will offer against Mrs. King will be her alleged confession made the day of her arrest.

Court Admits Confession.

A substantial effort was made by the defense yesterday afternoon to keep from the jury the confession made by Wilbur on the night of the arrest, while he was being hurried through the woods to Macon to escape millions last December.

The confession was made by Wilbur to Attorney Cooper, that the defense was willing from the defendant by threats and intimidation to go to the jury as it was related by County Treasurer Eldridge.

Train Goes Through Bridge Weakened by Rain; Fireman Hurt

One man was injured and several hundred dollars damage was done
Friday morning when a freight train of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad plunged into Tillman's Creek, near Manchester. The trestle over the creek had been weakened by rain.

Fireman Levi Hulley was caught in the wreckage and he reported seriously injured. Other members of the train were injured and escaped without injury. The engine, tender and several freight cars piled up in the creek.
Trains will be delayed by way of Woodbury, an additional distance of 12 miles, until the wreck is cleared and the trestle replaced.

'Worst' Boys in U. S. Are Found in Toledo, Erie and Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 24.—"Milwaukee boys are third worst in the country," said Jack Robbins, of the National Brother's Association, at a meeting of the philanthropists today. Toledo boys are the worst in the country, according to Robbins, and Erie, Pa., boys the next.

Mr. Robbins interviewed fifty-three boys. He reported that:
Smoking cigarettes, 41; smoking a pipe, 4; chewing tobacco, 1; do not use tobacco, 12; stay out when they have money, 14; play cards, 4; go to the picture shows, 21; use leisure hours reading, 4; are interested in baseball and 42 are interested in prize-fighting.

lanta Bureau Friday was:

veloped Atlanta and the State for the past few days has passed, the forecaster declared.

SOLICITOR ARMED WITH SHEAF OF AFFIDAVITS TO DEFEAT REPEALING

With the grounds to be argued for a new trial settled upon at the close of the forenoon session of the Frank hearing in the State Capitol, the lawyers for the prosecution and defense made ready in the afternoon to begin the actual arguments for and against the motion of the defense.

Practically everything was cleared away except the reading of a few more of the affidavits against A. H. Henslee and Marcellus Johanning, the two jurors accused of bias and prejudice in their consideration of the evidence. It was regarded as likely that the hearing would conclude late Saturday afternoon.

Solicitor Dorsey, in spite of the defense's charges and evidence against Henslee and Johanning, conceded nothing. He was prepared with a great sheaf of affidavits with which to support his case and to argue that neither of the attacked jurors was guilty of bias or prejudice when he went into the jury box. As this offered the possibility of being the point on which a new trial might hinge, the Solicitor was prepared to fight to the very last every contention of bias by the defense.

Attorney Rosser began the reading of the affidavits at 12 o'clock, immediately after the close of the 115 reasons advanced by the defense had been accepted by the prosecution or revised by Judge Roan. Most of them had been published in the newspapers.

New affidavits testified to the presence in Albany, Ga., of Henslee on the date he denied he was there. Stiles Hopkins, member of the Rosser & Brandon law firm, appeared at the hearing with the register of the New Albany Hotel bearing the signature of Henslee at the disputed time. This the defense contended, clinched their allegation that Henslee was there at the time he is reported to have made denunciatory remarks about Frank.

Among the remarks that Henslee was alleged to have made before the trial were that he "would like to break Frank's neck," that he would like to bet a dollar that he would be on the Frank jury, that he believed Frank and no one else was guilty of the murder, and that if he was accused as a juror he would do his best to obtain a conviction.

Denounced Frank's Race.

There were many denunciatory references to Frank's race, and one affiant charged Henslee with saying that if the jury ever turned him loose
he would not get out of town alive.

Solicitor Dorsey repeated at the hearing his charges that friends of Frank and employees at the penitentiary had so concealed and withheld evidence during the murder mystery as to be conclusive indication that the defendant was the guilty person.

The defense was seeking to maintain its contention that the court was in error for allowing testimony and argument along this line when the Solicitor reiterated his belief. He said that the apparent animosity with which friends and employees withheld information from the detective made him believe that there was a conspiracy to protect the defendant.

"I told that I had a right to state
the facts," he declared to Judge Roan.

"Maybe the Solicitor had no rights in the matter, but I think he had. Let them put in their reasons exactly what I said. I'm willing to stand by it."

The hearing was delayed considerably by continuous squabbles over minor points in the wording and phrasing of the defense's reasons.
Attorney Arnold and Solicitor Dorsey, as soon as the hearing on a new Frank trial resumed Friday morning, were embroiled in an argument over the completeness with which the court stenographers had entered the objections of the defense during the trial.
Arnold maintained that the stenographers in many instances had entered in the record only the first objection made by a lawyer for the defense and had disregarded the additional objections that might have been made during the subsequent argument. Several of the court reporters merely designating the debate by the notation, "Attorneys argued question pro and con."

Let's Testimony Again.

The point arose at the beginning of the review of reasons which were left unanswered from the first consideration. The defense maintained that the court erred in letting in the testimony of Newt Lee, that Detective John Black had talked to him longer than Frank, the inference being that Frank was not seeking to get the truth from the negro. Arnold contended that objection had been made at the time on the ground that it was immaterial, irrelevant, prejudicial and a mere conclusion.

Dorsey retorted that the only objection made then was that it was not in rebuttal. At this juncture, Attorney Arnold made the charge that the stenographers at times got only one part of the objection, missing what might be made in the course of the following argument. Stenographers Tetlow and Freer were called and sworn. Tetlow testified that he reported the arguments of counsel in full and later "boxed them down," retaining all the objections.

Freer said that he omitted the arguments, but made record of all objections.

State Breaks Out in Brady-Miller
Stables, and Envelope Com-

Fire of unknown origin, which was discovered in the structure formerly owned by the Brady-Miller stables and located at 1400, threatened an entire block of business houses and forced 50 girls to flee for their lives Friday afternoon.

A Rush for Exits.
Immediately a rush was made for the exits. The management of the company, realizing the peril of a panic, quickly dispatched all the men at its command to escort the terrified employees and quiet them safely to the street.

The burning building, a three-story structure, was unoccupied. It was the property of the Miller Real Estate and Investment Company and carried a $100,000 fire insurance.

The flames were first discovered by a boy. They originated, it was found, on the first floor in the rear of the building. Apparently the fire had been in progress for some time when the fire engine arrived. It did not attain tremendous headway.

Not only was the envelope company's building doomed, apparently,
but also was the Capital City Chair company and the Capital City Chair

Charley Wabon, of Carlisle, has been selected to referee the Virginia team to-morrow afternoon at Ponce de Leon Park. Jack Barry, of Georgetown, will umpire, while Frank Brown, of Vanderbilt, will probably be selected to-night as head inspector.

Alumni of Virginia University Friday welcomed the Yellow and Purple team to-day at the Hotel Andley, and arranged, first, that their traveling expenses be catered to in a most thorough fashion. It being then the noon hour, and second, that a light practice should be held at Piedmont Park, strictly in private, by invitation of the Piedmont Driving Club.

Coach Warren was desirous of finding a "nice quiet spot" where some signals could be run off in costume, especially as the fine, bracing air and sunshine tempted his charges to light exercise by way of taking off the weight of staidness that might have lingered from the trip.

FRANK OF JUROR HENSLEE A JOE ENOUGH TO WIN, IS BELIEF OF FRANK DEFENSE

In the trial, Solicitor Dorsey took sharp and indignant issue with Judge Frank, asserting the judge to give his opinion as to whether it was possible for the jurors to have heard the demonstration.

"I can give my opinion if I wish," retorted the judge. The matter was compromised by the qualification that this possibility was "contingent."

Indications Thursday were that the review of the 15 reasons would hardly be completed by night. It is unlikely that the arguments will begin before Friday noon. They will require at least one day.

The character of Frank, a burning issue during his trial for the murder of Mary Phagan, again was the subject of animated argument. Almost the entire forenoon was given over to a fight by Frank and his attorneys to establish as reasons for a new trial the admission by Judge Roan of all the mass of evidence which sought to prove Frank a pervert and a degenerate.

Throughout the hearing the lawyers for Frank made ground after ground for a new trial upon the attacks that had been made by the Solicitor upon Frank's character. It was apparent that the convicted man's lawyers were confident that the court had been led into an error by admitting testimony of this sort.

Each question asked by the Solicitor during the trial which sought to elicit answers derogatory to Frank's character and moral conduct entered into the numerous reasons for a new trial.

The admission of all the testimony bearing on Frank's alleged attitude toward women and his reported acts of perversion, particularly as testified to by Conley; the alleged bias of jurors, and the demonstrations in the courtroom are the three grounds for a new trial on which the defense will place the greatest stress in their arguments, according to all indications during the first two days of the hearing.

The testimony of Miss Irene Jackson, the pretty daughter of County Policeman Jackson, formed the basis of a heated argument at the outset of the hearing between Solicitor Dorsey and A. E. Stephens on one side and Reuben Arnold and Herbert Haas on the other, the attorneys for the defense coming off victorious.

Further Rosser, chief of counsel for Frank, was not present when the hearing resumed in the little ante-room off the library in the State Library.

Attack Girl's Testimony. Miss Jackson's testimony was taken up in the forty-third reason. The court was declared in error because Miss Jackson had been permitted to testify as to alleged particular acts of immorality on the part of Frank which had nothing to do with the crime of murder.

Dorsey maintained that absolutely no objection had been made at the time. Arnold and Haas replied that a blanket or omnibus objection had been made while Ashley Jones was on the stand from which a ruling came that all testimony of this class should be regarded as objected to.

Defense Wins Again. Judge Roan decided in favor of Arnold and Haas, remarking that the testimony of Miss Jackson, which had to do with Frank's conduct in the ladies' dressing room on the fourth floor, seemed to be covered by the objection to the cross-questioning of Jones, and also to the direct examination of C. B. Dalton, one of the State's witnesses.

The forty-sixth reason contended that the court erred in letting in the questions of the Solicitor when Miss Lula McDonald was on the stand. Miss McDonald was asked if she was aware that Frank on the Saturday previous to the murder had been seen on a car to Hapeville in company with a young girl whom he sought to persuade to leave the car with him. The witness denied that she knew of any such circumstances, but Frank's lawyers contended that the questions, regardless of the answers given, tended to place in the minds of the jurors an unfavorable conception of the defendant's character, a circumstance extremely prejudicial to his case. The reason was approved by Judge Roan.

Boy's Story Called Unfair. The forty-seventh ground, based on the testimony of Willie Turner, also was approved as a basis of argument. Turner testified that he saw Frank talking with Mary Phagan some weeks before the murder and the defense objected on the ground that the Solicitor unfairly was seeking to build up in the minds of the jurors the conviction that Frank for some time previous to the pencil factory tragedy was making persistent endeavors to become intimate with the girl, a suspicion which was unjust in view of the meager evidence.

The forty-eighth reason was withdrawn by Attorney Arnold because his objection made during the trial to the testimony of W. P. Murk, a street car conductor, had been withdrawn. Murk had testified that he met Daisy Hopkins one Saturday, and that she told him she was on her way to the pencil factory where she had an engagement with the "boss."

The Hopkins woman was a witness during the trial, and her character and reputation were vigorously assailed by the State.

Before the hearing was well under way Attorney Rosser announced that there were a number of affidavits which he had not yet obtained, but which he wished to submit along with the rest as soon as they were signed. He remarked that Solicitor Dorsey had made the exchange of affidavits so late that he had not had the opportunity to get four or five counter-affidavits which he knew were available.

With the review of the defense's grounds for a new trial more than a third completed, it was regarded as almost certain that the fight on the jurors would be precipitated some time Thursday.

The defense, to support their contentions of bias and violent prejudice, had more than a score of affidavits to submit from reputable and prominent persons in Atlanta, Sparta and Monroe, who swore that they had heard Henslee before the trial bitterly denounce Frank and declare that if he was called as a juror he would do his best to "break his (Frank's) neck."

Solicitor Dorsey went into the hearing Thursday prepared to concede nothing and determined to fight every inch of the way against the accusations of bias and prejudice. He was fortified with affidavits from Henslee and Johnnie testifying to their own lack of bias when the trial started and with affidavits from other members of the jury who swore that during the 29 days of the trial they never heard Henslee or Johnnie utter a word that indicated their opinions were for or against the defendant.

Reuben Arnold made the startling charge just before the close of the first day's session that it was the crowd, and not the judge and jury, who ran the Frank trial.

The discussion was on reason 38, which narrated that during Attorney Arnold's examination of one of the witnesses the spectators laughed in derision when he failed to elicit the answers desired.

"It seemed as though I was the comedian of the trial," observed Arnold, "and the spectators so far as until that trial took place. Nearly every time I jumped up there was a hostile guffaw somewhere back in the audience."

The defense, in outlining its reason, held that the judge should have cleared the court or taken other radical steps to put a stop to the demonstrations. Threats of clearing the courtroom were not sufficient as the succeeding disturbances, handclapping and other demonstrations evidenced.

The reason read: "The defense, in outlining its reason, held that the judge should have cleared the court or taken other radical steps to put a stop to the demonstrations. Threats of clearing the courtroom were not sufficient as the succeeding disturbances, handclapping and other demonstrations evidenced."

"That's all right, let it go in," acquiesced Arnold. "I just wanted to show that it was the spectators who were running the court and not the judge and jury."

The transcript of testimony at this point was entered in the reason in accordance with the wishes of the Solicitor.

Judge Roan hurried the lawyers along in the afternoon session and more than twice as many of the reasons were taken up and passed on as in the forenoon. The majority of the reasons, most of them with slight revisions insisted upon by the Solicitor, were approved by Judge Roan. Others were dismissed from consideration temporarily to be taken up later when the Solicitor had been able to investigate them carefully by comparison with the records of the case.

Judge Tells of Applause. One of the most significant events of the hearing came in the certification by Judge Roan of the description of the applause in the courtroom when it was announced that the testimony of Conley in regard to alleged acts of immorality on the part of Frank should remain in the record.

Judge Roan certified that it was his recollection that there was applause and stamping of feet and that there was a demonstration which jurors could have been heard by the jurors who were in an adjacent room.

This certification on the part of the judge is regarded as highly favorable to the prospects for a new trial. Even should a new trial be denied by Judge Roan, the Supreme Court will not be compelled to go behind the statement of facts, as would be necessary in the event that the possibility of the jurors' hearing the demonstration was merely a contention of the defense, unsupported by the court's certification.

Fisher Protests His Story Is True. Detectives were puzzled Thursday over the persistence with which Ira W. Fisher, the "man of mystery" in the Phagan murder case, sticks to his original story involving another man in the slaying of Mary Phagan and declaring Leo M. Frank is innocent. The man is an enigma, which detectives are assiduously seeking to solve, not because of any importance they attach to his remarkable recital, but in an effort to ascertain the real motive that prompted him to jump into the Frank case in such a sensational manner.

Despite the severe grillings he has undergone already, Fisher has not shown the slightest signs of weakening, and Thursday morning reiterated his story with the same show of confidence that marked his first narration. Ridicule and the frank charge that he is "lying," are all the same to him—neither disturbs him. He only smiles when told that he is in a "frame-up," or is accused of being a "dopester" or a "lunatic."

"Nothing to take back," "I'll go to the penitentiary for life before I'll ever change my story in the least—I've told just what happened, and there's nothing for me to take back," calmly remarked the mysterious prisoner.

Shirley's Attorneys Charge Old Grudge.

Charles J. Graham, attorney for J. C. Shirley, the Atlanta merchant, the attempted victim of Ira W. Fisher, returned from an investigation of Fisher's actions in Birmingham Thursday.

Mr. Graham held a long conference with Chief of Detectives Lanford upon his arrival and Fisher was brought from his cell for another cross-examination. The lawyer's trip mainly was for purpose of locating Joe Hicks, who it is declared, played a leading role in the Fisher fiasco when it was first revealed before Chief of Police Bodeker, of Birmingham. Hicks is said to have taken Fisher to the Birmingham police official and induced him to tell the story which accused Shirley of Mary Phagan's murder.

Investigation in the Alabama city, Mr. Graham said, failed to reveal the mysterious Hicks. It was declared there that he had disappeared following the exposure of the accusations against Shirley.

The attorney, however, said that he had obtained evidence which would tend to show a motive for Fisher's fabrication.

From what Fisher told Chief Bodeker, according to Graham, he had a private grudge against Shirley and sought revenge.

When questioned on this point Thursday, however, Fisher denied any motive of that kind.

Fisher is held at police headquarters on several serious charges in connection with his story. Graham declared his investigation had not been completed.

POLICE CAPTAIN ESCAPES WITH REPRIMAND

Officer Hall Tried at Jacksonville on Charge of Undue Political Activity.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 23.—When Police Captain Harry Hall was tried this afternoon on charges of undue political activity prior to the Bond Trustee election last Saturday, he escaped with a reprimand.

Hall was accused of using a member of the police force for private detective work. He was specifically charged that the captain had detailed Detective N. B. Hagan to act under orders from Councilman J. B. Lucy, a Hostwick supporter and "spot" for the Councilman.

Hall admitted sending Hagan to find DuBoise, but said he was not interested in finding DuBoise. He admitted exceeding his authority as a Councilman, but denied he was acting on behalf of any Bond Trustee.

He did not make it clear why he wanted to find DuBoise.

"If there is any odium attaching to this thing," he said, "it is entirely on J. B. Lucy."

The investigation followed reports of espionage after the election of last Saturday night, when William M. Bostwick, Jr., and Henry Baillard were defeated for re-election to the board and George M. Powell and Frank I. Wheeler were chosen.

ECZEMA DISFIGURED
FACE BADLY

Also on Hands. Broke Out in Pimples. Itched Badly. Spread All Over Body. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Hampton Springs, Fla.—"I had had eczema on my face and hands for about three years. My face was badly disfigured. The eczema broke out in pimples and itched so very badly I would scratch it all the time. It was the most irritating disease I have ever had. It started on my face and hands and it spread all over my body. I had great large sores all over me, caused from the eczema. It bothered me day and night so that I could not rest at all."

"I used three remedies for skin disease and they didn't give relief at all. I was almost terrified until a friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment to me. They helped me from the time I started to use them. I used the Cuticura Soap and warm water as a wash and then used the Cuticura Ointment on the sores places. I only used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and was cured."

WHEELS STOLEN FOWL IN FIGHT WITH POLICE

Negro, Cornered in Alley by Patrolmen, Is Taken Only After Terrific Battle.

Policemen Turner and Duncan, using their stiletts with vigor as they patrolled their beat with a flock of chickens, were surprised to find a "Gyp" negro running out and test their mettle.

At Piedmont avenue and Harris street a negro ran down the street and slipped into an alley. Three chickens squawked in his clutches. Policeman Turner looked at Policeman Duncan.

"Shall we?" he inquired hoarsely. "Well better," replied Policeman Duncan.

So with brandishment of night-sticks and loud commands to stop, they dashed into the alley after the thief. The negro stopped all right. Also he flung a chicken at the officers, striking Duncan on the head.

Turner rushed into the fray while the negro dashed himself. The thief dashed a chicken at Turner, but missed.

The policeman grabbed the negro with a squawking chicken. He picked up one of the other chickens and then began a terrible battle—two policemen and their billies against a thief with two live, squawking chickens.

The policeman rushed and the negro set the range. His chickens were useless. He threw them down and began hitting. He hit both policemen. Turner drew his pistol. The thief grabbed it and turned it on the policeman. Only the presence of Turner's finger behind the trigger saved him from death. Duncan knocked the negro cold with his billie and he was taken to headquarters.

At the station it developed that Policemen Watson and Jones had been chasing the same thief two hours. The negro gave his name as Henry Langford. He had gone to the house of Florence Green, a negro, at Houston and Butler streets, and was surprised by the woman.

She tried to hold the negro until the policeman came. Before Jones and Watson got there, however, Langford pushed open the door, knocked the women down with a chicken and escaped, taking three fowls with him.

BANK STATEMENT CALLED.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane today issued a call for the condition of national banks at the close of business on October 21.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—While the weather was cloudy and rainy over the central and eastern belt, which would have ordinarily been considered a favorable factor for cotton, the market was technically in a position to receive a reaction from Liverpool cables much lower than expected. After the call there was a decline of 1/16 to 1/8 points from Thursday's final. The call there was an advance of cotton dumped upon the market and the price increased to 14 1/2 to 17 points. The weakness was attributed to the fact that warm weather in the south, and the fact that the market was selling movement and an old stock condition, which was said to be catching up orders.

Trading, however, was less active than for some time, but bid leaders expressed confidence that the market would go still higher than it did when October reached 14 1/2. Thursday and Friday's market was said to be a day off the short side.

The Man Who Fears Disinheritance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I am nineteen years of age, and I live with a father who is wealthy. I love this life, but my father said he would disinherit me if I marry her. I have $100 of my own, and I want to go somewhere and start a business for myself, for I will not give up the girl. She wants to go with me and help make our fortune. Shall we marry now and go together, or shall I leave her till my fortune is made?

E. H.

DISINHERITANCE—pooh!—that's a word to frighten the hero in a three-act melodrama.

It doesn't belong in a good American vocabulary at all.

Disinherit—what can it disinherit you from?

Your health—your courage—your manhood—your independence—why any one of these qualities is worth a down fortune.

Don't give one of them up for the sake of a little money, for hearken—the money you can make and lose, and get and gain—in no time and be neither better nor worse, nor happier nor more miserable than you were before you had it or lost it.

Your character is a different thing—that is in the making now—don't let any love of money for mere money's sake cripple your character now when it is just in the making.

There's nothing in it.

Go to your father and talk to him—like a man—say to him, "Father, I love you. I respect you. I am deeply grateful for everything you are trying to do for me. I don't believe you quite understand—I want to explain."

What to say.

"I love this life and she loves me—believe that we can be happy together—why do you want to prevent our marriage? Would you like the sort of a man who would give up the girl he loves just for the sake of money?"

"Do you want me to stay with you and do as you bid—not because I love you and want to be with you, but because I want to elude at your money?"

"Is that the sort of a son you want?"

"I don't believe it."

"Who is it that you want me to marry? Some girl who has money too and who will help me build up the business?"

"Don't you know that the kind of money that comes that way is a liability every time and not an asset?"

"Don't you realize that a square, honest, courageous man is worth more to any business than all the money he could inherit by being a scattering coward?"

A LEADING QUESTION.

"And, father, tell me—the truth now—I'm not a boy any longer. I'm a man—a man that wants to do the square thing by you and by myself—talk to me man-fashion—tell me—those who choose my mother to be my wife?"

"And who was there in the world that could have made you give her up after the day she said to you 'I love you'?"

Nine hundred dollars of your own, eh? Well, if worst comes to worst, that's more than it has taken to start many a fortune.

Talk it all over with your father—think it all over carefully and earnestly, and then take your sweet heart by the hand and look the world in the face with a light heart—and let the fortune go.

SECOND POSITION.

By Donald Brian.

Will make things to remember about any dance is to have it entirely upon the turkey trot tempo.

Almost anything can be done in the way of variations, if one has the regular turkey trot swing to begin with.

So it can easily be seen that anything in the way of a new dance is absolutely impossible.

It is simply left to the skill and originality of the inventor to so combine certain steps as a dance is devised which seems an absolutely new departure from all old methods.

My new dance I have called the "Futurist Twirl," but it is nothing more nor less than a combination of the tango and turkey trot with greatly exaggerated steps.

However, the rapidity which comes with practice makes a very unusual effect, and it is possible for anyone who dances to perfect this whole dance without any trouble at all.

Everything in the "Futurist Twirl" is based upon a system of eight counts.

So, if this makes an impression in the beginning, it will simplify matters in the end.

Always remember that each position and set of steps end with eight counts.

In the first position the man and girl stand side by side, the man with his right arm around the girl's waist and her left hand in his, and eight regular turkey trot steps are taken down the

Donald Brian Tells You How to Dance "The Futurist Twirl"

This is the first article of a series which Mr. Brian, of "Merry Widow" fame, is writing for the readers of these pages, describing his new dance, which is destined to become the rage this Winter.

Winter.

on the part of the man. This is done in the regular turkey trot or tango position. The walk can be practiced by placing the right foot forward and dragging it back on the ball of the foot, and then giving place to the left and going through the same motions again.

The girl in the meantime walks back eight steps in tempo, the regular turkey trot walk, with the man. The fish walk, in an exaggerated style, is the only thing that needs particular practice in this first part of the dance.

It is a great deal like the skipping with an exaggerated pluck—ward on each step, and is not at all difficult to accomplish. It must be remembered that the man alone does this fish walk, while the girl simply walks back in time to the music.

Thus the fish walk is really the only departure from the ordinary trot in this part of the dance.

When beginning to learn this dance, remember to first of all perfect your turkey trot swing; this is most important.

No one who does not turkey should attempt to learn any variations. It would be merely a waste of time. Then get into the spirit of the thing and let yourself go.

This is, after all, the real secret of dancing. Absolute abandonment to the movements of the dance and the ability to really enjoy oneself.

PREPARING FOR THE "FISH WALK."

(All pictures especially posed by Donald Brian and Miss Carol McConno, of "The Marriage Market," for this page.)

From this position, the girl is rapidly changed, and the man and girl take the regular position for dancing, but with the man's left arm around the girl's right hand held out.

Always remember this fact, it gives more freedom and yet a better feeling of security in both dancers, and besides it looks better.

Then comes the regular fish walk, with an exaggerated stride

Ogling Starts Fight In Picture Theater; Belligerents Fined

W. J. Murray, motion picture show proprietor, and J. B. Bowen, a plumber, were fined $5.00 each by Recorder Boyles Thursday afternoon for fighting before a picture-theater audience in Murray's Whitehall Street Theater Tuesday night.

Murray stated to the court that Bowen was trying to oggle a young woman who sat next to him, and that when Bowen left the theater he (Murray) told Bowen he need not come again. He said that Bowen then called him a liar and struck him. Bowen told a different story. He said he did look at a young woman, but that it was after Murray had been staring at her so long he thought something was the matter with her, so he took a look himself. Then, when he started out of the theater, he said Murray accused him of "ogling."

The fight followed. Recorder Boyles stated that he had known Bowen for 20 years and that he had always looked upon him as a gentleman and upright citizen. He reprimanded Murray for his actions and fined both for fighting.

SIDELIGHTS on GEORGIA POLITICS

By JAMES B. NEVIN

The Georgia Federation of Colored Women's Clubs has presented the Railroad Commission a petition that likely will receive the careful attention of that honorable body, and is almost sure to produce results commendable and worth while.

The petition asks better railroad accommodations in Georgia for colored passengers, without in any way suggesting a withdrawal of a single essential feature of the present segregation arrangements.

The petition asks among other things that the door now separating (usually) the colored compartment from the white smoker be kept closed and that the colored section be provided with more than one lavatory.

These colored women, who represent in their federation the best element of negro population in Georgia, do not think that their cut-off section of the ordinary cars used for colored passengers should be made virtually a smoking car, which now it often is, particularly in view of the fact that they are not permitted to use any other car, and they do not believe that it is right for them to be deprived of lavatory privileges, as they now almost invariably are. They hold that the sexes, at least, should be separated in these cars.

Chairman Candler of the Railroad Commission, believes this petition in every way worthy of the most serious attention of the commission and he will urge its consideration at the next meeting of the same.

He holds, as does practically every Southern white person, that the races must be separated on the trains, but that the colored passengers, nevertheless, should have reasonable comforts and accommodations while traveling.

Oscar Underwood's forthcoming elevation to the United States Senate being accepted as a foregone conclusion in Washington, Representative William Charles Adamson's friends are hoisting him for the Democratic floor leadership in succession to the Alabama.

Mr. Adamson is ranked on the Ways and Means Committee by Representative Ritchie, and even if he is not named, a Southerner seems destined to win the big plum.

It may be stated as a fact, however, that the Adamson boom is a very real and a very live one, and he is looked upon as amply and completely qualified for the job.

Judge Adamson is now the chairman of the great Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, and as such takes a very high stand in the House. He is a veteran in point of service and experience, and many members would like to see him made the party leader on the floor.

Governor John M. Slaton was the guest of honor at the Georgia State Fair in Macon Thursday. The day was especially set aside as "Governor's Day," and was so advertised in all the fair literature.

The Executive was accompanied to Macon by a number of his military staff officers and numerous friends.

Besides the Governor and the Atlanta party, there were politicians and statesmen, real and near, from all points of the State gathered in Macon for the occasion.

The Chief Magistrate and inspect, the fair with him.

Indirectly, the big show is being held under the direction of the State.

TOURNAMENT FOR CORN SHOW WEEK

The annual gathering brings together in the National Capital a great number of very eminent State officials and serves as a sort of clearing house for ideas, accumulated with respect to railway management and operation from the standpoint of the various railroad commissions.

Both Mr. Candler and Mr. Webster made it a particular point to attend these meetings, both as a matter of duty and pleasure, for it is strictly in line with both.

The Court of Appeals is working overtime nowadays, seeking to clear its dockets before Chief Judge Hill leaves that bench for the newly created position of Superior Court Judge in Fulton.

For a time, an unauthorized rumor that Judge Battle also was to leave the appeals bench swamped the Governor with applications for that position, but Judge Battle's positive assertion that he has no idea of leaving the bench any time soon, if at all, has about put a stop to that matter.

The South Georgia member of the court proposes to remain with it for some time to come, anyway—in fact, it is more than likely that he will serve his full term, at least, before retiring.

When Judge Hill steps down, and Judge Battle also leaves, the right of seniority, as that is the rule on the appeals bench.

With the retirement of Judge Hill, Judge Russell also will become the sole member of the original court, as well as the most experienced, as a first established, still serving, as a judge.

The first three members were Judge Hill, Judge Russell and Judge Arthur Powell.

Child Labor in Georgia and a Letter From a Gentleman Who Objects to It and to a Cartoon Opposing It.

The editor of The Georgian is in receipt of the following letter:

Dear Sir: I am taking the liberty to call your attention to a very "two-faced" cartoon in your paper of even date, headed, "LIFE—LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS."

It seems to me that while you are running articles on child labor and slavery on your back page that you would refrain from running ads like this on the inside page, viz:

WANTED

Inexperienced females and CHILDREN in

Rag Factory, Good Wages.

I appreciate the fact that you will not publish this letter. You don't dare, as it would attract attention to your two-faced policies, but nevertheless, in justice to those most concerned, the children, I am going to write it and send copies to other papers, and if there be any means of obtaining a fair-minded editor to publish this letter, I will do so.

You have carried on this two-faced matter in several articles, and it seems to me that if you were really interested in the welfare of children and conditions that exist here in the South that you would refrain from advertising the fact that the "Mills of the Gods and Hell" were still grinding out their toll.

In some parts of our great country such double dealing might pass unobserved, but here it shall not.

Your paper could, by fairness, be made a medium of great worth toward the improvement of conditions, but not by such plain advertising on one page of the hellish mills that are ruining our country's future—the children—and on another page printing excellent editorials on Child Slavery.

Give this your consideration. Think it over. Print what I have written or not, as you like, but remember that there are others than myself who see your "double dealing," and surely you will in some manner be called to account.

Thank God I am not one of the poor unfortunates who are born in slavery, and still more thankful am I that I am not the owner of one of these Destroyers of Children.

Begin a new reign and publish your excellent editorials, but don't advertise for more "children."

Very respectfully yours,
W. H. ROSSMAN,
Kirkwood, Ga.

It is an easy matter to convince Mr. Rossman that he is mistaken in his idea that The Georgian will not publish his letter—even mistaken in his rather vehement suggestion that The Georgian "dare" not print it.

We do that by printing it.

The Georgian does not know, however, that it will be such an easy matter to convince him of the additional mistake he makes in assailing the motives and sincerity of others no less earnestly opposed to child labor than he professes to be.

Nothing much by the way of benefit to anybody ever comes of losing one's temper or preaching the doctrine of intolerance, and so we dismiss the gentleman's tumultuous and even bitter references to the methods and motives of this newspaper along with his further suggestions of The Georgian's "two-facedness."

The cartoon he protests is reprinted in this issue of The Georgian, in the hope that its true significance may sink into Mr. Rossman's mind, and into the minds of some other perhaps as sadly misguided zealots.

The Georgian believes in the frankest and freest discussion of all matters affecting the welfare, progress, happiness and prosperity of the people.

The Georgian's correspondent probably does not understand that The Georgian is engaged primarily now in an effort to picture the enormity and unrighteousness of child labor—to picture it so plainly and so clearly that the movement toward its abolition in the South, once put in motion, shall not cease until it has been carried to a happy end.

The Georgian and Mr. Rossman both may engage in genuine service to the cause by leveling their guns at the deficient LAW of this State, rather than at one another!

If The Georgian had its way, no child should work in any factory, in any circumstances, under eighteen years of age!

We believe that children should be educated in the schools a reasonable part of their time, and also permitted to play and run free in the open air, to enjoy God's sunshine and the joys of life, while yet their youth is vouchsafed to them.

The trouble is—and that it is the thing against which Mr. Rossman protests at heart, perhaps, however unwittingly he hits at this newspaper in attempting to reach something else—IN THE OUTRAGEOUS AND ALTOGETHER INDEFENSIBLE LAWS OF GEORGIA TOUCHING THE SUBJECT OF CHILD LABOR.

It is legally possible in Georgia for a lot of twelve to stunt and wear its little life and vitality away in a cotton mill!

That should not be so!

The LAWS should be above such infamy!

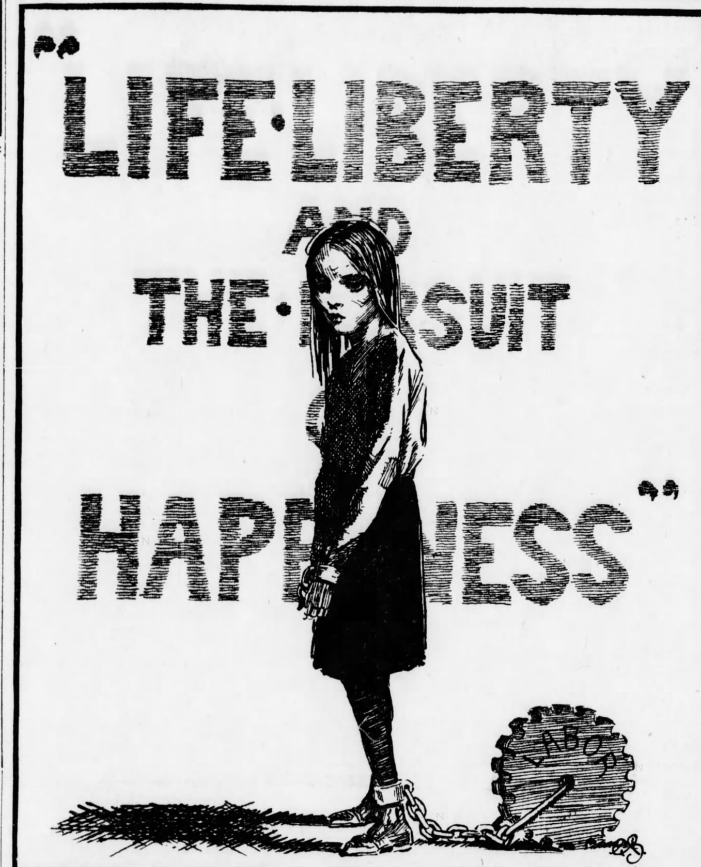

But so long as Georgia lawmakers permit untoward and inhuman conditions to exist in Georgia, just so long will this newspaper, and all others, be obliged to content themselves as best they may with protesting by word and cartoon and individual appeal to the limit of their sincerity and ability!

Mr. Rossman, in the meantime, does not advance the cause by attacking and questioning the motives and sincerity of those who are endeavoring to right the very wrong against which he himself assumes to be so violently embittered.

We invite Mr. Rossman to hold his temper in better hand, and to direct his energies to the undoing of real enemies, not always to be found in the open.

Man and Woman: Which Is the Superior?

Each Excels, as Each Fails, in Certain Particulars; Both Are Necessary to Make Up Humanity; to Augue Further Is Futile.

By DOROTHY DIX

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "Will you please discuss the subject, 'Is Man Superior to Woman?' A neighbor of mine, a foreigner, contends that man is superior to woman. He holds that he is far superior to his wife, yet she does twice as much work as he does. She runs both his home and his store, and it is her energy and intelligence that have made his business a success."

To argue about whether woman is superior to man, or man is superior to woman, is as futile as to discuss whether winter is better than summer, or rain or sunshine is more advantageous to growing crops.

Each excels in certain particular each fails in certain respects, and both are necessary to make up humanity. Take them by and large, and men and women are cut off pretty much the same piece of goods. As Mrs. Prower truly said: "Women are foolish—they made them that way to match the men."

Undoubtedly the vast majority of men believe, on insufficient evidence, that they are far superior to women, and that the mere accident of sex is a sort of genius in itself so that anybody who is destined to wear trousers is by reason of that fact more intelligent, gifted with a broader vision, and a safer judgment than even the most gifted creature doomed by nature to skirt.

In some women is the hold of this view, and a great number profess to subscribe to it because experience has taught them that man is woman's superior in all that a quality—virtue. They have found out that the easier way to work a man is to sit at his feet and wait him hot air, and tell him how big and wise and strong, and handsome he is, and what a poor, miserable worm of the dust a mere female is.

It is these cheerful workers among women, aided and abetted by the fact that the law gives man the right to rule over women, and until lately has given him also her property, that has fostered man's belief in his superiority to woman.

But why, goodness even knows, because it is woman who takes care of man at every stage of the game, from the time when she smokes out his little eyes when he's born, to the day when she closes them in death. And all between times she helps him, she braces him up, she tugs him into the right path, and keeps him going. Many a big and successful man is really a little inferior man made by a superior woman.

Of course, men are superior to women in certain respects. A man, for instance, is stronger than a woman. He has bigger bones, more muscle. The average man can lift his wife with one hand. But it is the woman who stands an eighteen-hour workday, devoted to the most monotonous labor on earth, a strain under which a man would break down, or take to drink.

It is the weak mother who can nurse a fretful, teething baby month after month, who can be up with it half the night, and in times of sickness hold it in her arms for a week at a time without getting nervous or impatient. Any Sunday taking care of the children on the nurse's afternoon off leaves an aside-headed man worn to a frazzle.

Men have greater physical endurance than women. Yet any doctor will tell you which bears pain better, a man or a woman. Let a man get a toothache, or a headache, and he howls to heaven about it and wants doctors and trained nurses and everybody in the family to be on the jump waiting on him, while there are thousands and thousands of women who never draw a breath that isn't fraught with pain and who go uncomplainingly about their daily duties without even mentioning how they feel.

Men are braver than women. There are even women who are afraid of mice, but every woman who braves a child goes unflinchingly forth to look into the face of death by torture. Only the exceptional woman ever has his courage put to the test that practically every woman experiences and when he doesn't flinch they call him a hero, but woman's courage is so common that we never notice it.

And women have far more moral courage than men. Men are afraid of shame, of ridicule, of having the finger of scorn pointed at them. A man turns a disgraced daughter out of doors. He divorces a drunken wife, but a woman stands by her own no matter how low they fall. It is women, and not men, who are waiting outside of the penitentiary doors to take the freed convicts home.

Men are the financiers of the world, but the average woman as a man can when it comes to spending, and it is these families where the wife is the cashier who will never have to find property. It is also notable that in a business where both men and women are employed, although the women receive a smaller salary than the men, they will have a little bank account, and the men be borrowing money.

Men have better health, so a rule, than women do, yet when the head of a big firm when employed both male and female labor was asked if he did not find that the women lost a lot of time on account of sickness, replied: "Not so much as the men do from drunkenness."

A man is the official head of the family, yet it is men who desert their little children and leave them to starve. It is men who commit suicide when life gets over hard. You hardly ever hear of a woman abandoning her helpless little children to the cold mercy of the world.

More gentles than women. Men more gentles than women. They have written the big books, painted the great pictures, made the marvelous inventions, yet what man has ever done anything so wonderful as the creation of a man? A woman does that. Great men seldom breed great sons, but every great man has had a great mother.

And so you might argue the question endlessly as to which is the superior, the man or the woman. It is really a personal question. Some men are superior to some women, and some women are superior to some men. But they are average. If about the same percentage of wisdom and force of will and strength of nobility and meanness. It is in any case a man to think he is superior to his wife, let him enjoy it. She and generally the neighbors, know better.

Dr. Parkhurst's Article

ON—
The Episcopal Convention Why "The American Church" Is an Unwise Name—Drunkennes as a Divorce Ground; Make Separation More Difficult.

By DR. CHAS. H. PARKHURST.

THE forty-third annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church held its first session October 8. Its proceedings will be watched with wide interest. The two parties composing its membership are so nearly matched numerically that the discussion engaged in will be of a seriousness and vigor that will draw to the attention of all far and near, who are at all concerned in matters of church life and polity.

The High Church and the Low Church parties are arrayed against each other, and that out of a total vote of 600 for presiding officer the candidate of the Low Church faction should have won by a margin of only sixteen indicates that there is to be a kind of "tug of war," yet conducted, of course, by gracious and pacific methods—although there have been some church conventions where ecclesiastical tranquility crowded close on military.

All Churches Interested in Episcopal Change of Name.

One of the questions that are to come up for debate has to do with the change of name. It is the desire of a considerable element of the Episcopal body that it should be rechristened under the title of "The American Church."

Although this is a matter in which Episcopalians themselves are primarily concerned and which it will be for them, and for no one else, to decide, yet it is of interest to other denominations, whether Catholic or Protestant, and even to those who are not actively affiliated with any denomination.

The criticism which has been expressed that such a designation shows a leaning toward the union of Church and State has no great force, for the sharp discrimination between the two is too deeply imbedded in the American mind to allow of any solicitude in that direction, or to warrant the supposition that any number of Episcopalian are pressing toward such an aim. However closely related Church and State may be in certain points, the two are organically distinct, and no one supposes that on American ground they will ever be anything else.

There is more force in the other criticism, made not only by non-conformists, but by many members of the Episcopal body, that such a name carries upon it the aspect of attempted monopoly. At the first look of the thing it would seem like the case of a boy—one of many brothers—who should say, "I, mother and father are all that there are of us."

We should not like to suppose that such an idea lies in any Episcopal mind. I am only speaking of the first look of the thing. The Episcopal is an American Church, but it is not The American Church, and any action on its part that should even look like making such a claim would put far farther off that church unity of which the others are in need.

Blundering Marriages Only Serve to Feed the Divorce Courts.

That same service furthermore in that the "Holy estate" is not by to be entered into unadvisedly or lightly, but reverently, discreetly, advisedly, soberly, and in the fear of God.

It is just the lack of this, the habit of blundering into marriage, that feeds the divorce court. Courtship would be a different thing and be conducted with an altered spirit if it were understood by each of the parties that once the contract is consummated, death of one or the other of the two is the only way out of it, and that "the death do us part" is not merely a phrase, but a solemn covenant that cannot be broken.

Better than a plan for getting out of trouble is a policy for getting into it, and the sadder it is to get out the more there will be that will get in.

PERSECUTION OF GREEKS

Editor The Georgian.
I read with the greatest interest your editorial on the persecution of Jews in Russia, and I wish to congratulate you for your stand for humanity. Nobody nowadays should dispose of the lives of human beings as atrociously as the Jewish race seems to be disposed of in Russia.

Episcopal Church has been so militant an advocate.

UNDER the auspices of a society of which the Archbishop of Canterbury is president, Dr. Woods Hutchings has been delivering an address on divorce, in which he urges that drunkenness should be considered sufficient ground for breaking the marriage contract.

Without raising any question as to the soundness of Dr. Hutchings' position, a line of thought like that which he pursues in his address raises the question whether we may not be talking and writing too much about the war by which married people can get out of matrimony and too little about the straight and narrow way by which alone unmarried people ought to be allowed to enter into matrimony.

Easy divorce makes easy marriages, and easy marriages make easy divorce.

The moral soundness of society depends in very considerable measure upon the solidity and durability of the marriage tie, and every new divorce is another blow to social integrity and to the wholesome character of popular sentiment and life. The cordality accorded to divorced parties, who, half a century ago, would have been regarded as social outcasts, indicates the ease and rapidity with which the moral sense of the public has become weakened and debased.

The greater the ease with which the contract can be broken, the larger the part which will be played by inconsiderate passion in forming the contract.

Great credit is due to the Catholic Church for the rigid position which it continues to maintain. The Episcopal Church holds to the same ground with almost the same intensity of tenor. "Till death do us part" is the pledge still made in its marriage service.

PATTEN AND LOEB OUT OF FLORIDA GAME

Coach Heisman Refuses to Take a Chance With Injured Players; Thomason at Quarter.

WHEN the Tech team lines up against the University of Florida at Jacksonville tomorrow, Patten and Al Loeb, regular quarterback and center, respectively, will be on the side lines. Coach Heisman has decided to play the game without these two, which means that the pair will have to wait until the week before getting into action.

Loeb has had a sprained ankle and a badly wrenched shoulder. Both are showing signs of coming around quickly, and Coach Heisman, realizing the value they will be to the team in the November game, would prefer to wait until the week before getting into action.

With Patten's talented and eligible to play in the game, only one change will be necessary in the Tech line-up. Thomason going to quarter in place of Patten. Trawick has been playing center all the time and is familiar with the duties.

The Jackets held their last practice yesterday, and despite the rainy weather Coach Heisman put the machine through the stiffest work-out of the entire week. The practice was to handle a wet ball was engaged in the Jackets showing excellent form in this respect.

There is a marked improvement in the carrying of the line. The line-up that will open the game against the Alligators will be: Trawick, center; Lang, left guard; Heism, right guard; Rainey, left tackle; Nove, right tackle; Heism, left end; Nove, right end; Thomason, quarterback; Heism, halfback; Lang, fullback; Lang, center; Lang, left guard; Heism, right guard; Rainey, left tackle; Nove, right tackle; Heism, left end; Nove, right end; Thomason, quarterback; Heism, halfback; Lang, fullback.

Virginia Alumni to Entertain Team Here

Arrangements have been completed by the local alumni of the University of Virginia for entertaining the team for their football team during their stay in the city before and after the game with Georgia at Ponce Jackson tomorrow afternoon.

The alumni committee will await the team at the Hotel Ansony, which is their headquarters while here. The committee has arranged a special section in the grandstand for the University of Virginia alumni, and all Virginians residing in Atlanta.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 24.—All bites in the Mike McGoorty-Jack Dillon match, the four ten-round fight at New Orleans, booked here for November 2, have been smoothed over and the match is definite.

Spike Kelly Shades Walters in Fast Go

SUPERIOR, WIS., Oct. 24.—"Spike" Kelly had a slight shade on Billy Walters for two rounds of hard hitting before the fight. The boys mixed it vigorously all the way and neither had a decided advantage in any round. Walters forced the fighting throughout, but Kelly's steady attack and his defense with a whirlwind attack in the third round.

KRAZY KAT

'Tour Won't Hurt Men'—McGraw Expects to Cop Pennant in 1914

By James Clarkson.

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 24.—Many of the baseball critics throughout the country are predicting that John J. McGraw's New York Giants will not be there with the National League pennant next season. But McGraw does not agree with the wise critics.

The fact that the Giants were so severely weakened by the Philadelphia Athletics was of course, the direct cause for so much unfavorable criticism concerning the Giants of 1914. Then, right on top of the defeat of the American League champions comes along John J. McGraw and takes several of his star athletes a world tour, a tour on which baseball will be the chief feature. Many critics are predicting that when the Giants pass into New York harbor next March, at the conclusion of their tour of the world, they will be "all in" as far as their baseball ability is concerned.

But you can't make baseball's little Napoleon—McGraw—believe any such stuff. He is all American, according to the wise and crafty baseball man. McGraw was with his globe-trotting tour of splendid baseball talent. We had quite a chat with him before the Giant-White Sox special pulled away Monday for Springfield, Ill., where the team will play several games. We did not fail to ask him the direct question of what he thought his chances would be for the flag in the National League next season. His answer was a short one. "I think I'll win next summer, next season," he said. "I'll win next summer, next season," he said. "I'll win next summer, next season," he said.

Experts Much of New Pitchers. McGraw was very enthusiastic over the 1914 Giants. He declares that his young pitchers look awfully good, especially Elmer Schaefer and Ford Schupp. McGraw says both of the above-named pitchers should

RED AND BLACK TAKE WORK-OUT IN GYMNASIUM

Driving Rain Forces Squad to Abandon Field; Two Changes Made in Line-Up.

ATHENS, GA., Oct. 24.—A driving rain kept the Red and Black team off the field yesterday afternoon and thus deprived them of a badly needed signal drill with which to perfect the new plays that have been given for the game against Virginia. All hands reported to the gymnasium, however, and a thorough work-out was given the boys and most of the players over.

The game is causing but little interest here. Most of the fans concede the victory to Virginia, with hopes of a small score. A special train will make the trip to Atlanta tomorrow. Several hundred Georgia followers will accompany the team to see how the Red and Black is going to stack up against her real opponents in November. The team will be in good shape considering the injuries of two weeks ago. The heavy field will be a big advantage to the heavier team, and from all reports Virginia will carry something like 15 pounds to the man more weight than will Georgia. Two changes in the Georgia line-up have been made. Owens will be at end in place of Conklin, who is suffering from a severe charley horse, and Logan at half instead of Thompson. The other men will be Smith at end, Turner and Henderson, tackles; Malone and Thrall, guards; DeLaune, center; McWhorter, half; Paduch, quarter, and Powell, full.

The Judge Found Dead in a Disreputable Dive.

Mrs. Pankhurst Insisted on Telling It in Court—Although It Made Her Jail Term Longer.
 Copyright, 1923, by Blue Clouds.

Mrs. Pankhurst is admitted to this country—as we thought she would be.

The distinguished Mr. Wilson and the gentleman whom he put in charge of the Immigration Department, Caminetti, have found it necessary to reverse their views and admit her to this country. She is to see the people of the United States and tell them her story.

She will have many meetings, be sure to attend them and hear her if you can.

You will not in your lifetime have a chance to see another woman of that kind, or one with her courage.

To-day we tell you Mrs. Pankhurst insisted on telling the judge before whom she was tried last time just exactly what she thought about the law and about some of the judges.

The judge tried to stop her, but couldn't—even with the threats which he subsequently "made good" by inflicting a long prison term upon her.

It was Mrs. Pankhurst's intention—in her perfectly orderly, earnest and wonderfully eloquent speech—to take advantage of her opportunity commanding the world's attention, and to tell how the most miserable and unfortunate class of women are treated by the laws.

Long before it became so fashionable in this country and other countries—on the stage and in the pulpit—to discuss "white slavery," Mrs. Pankhurst had pointed out the fact that inequality before the law, the helplessness of women, and the brutality of men were responsible for white slavery. And that laws made by men only would never change conditions.

Inasmuch as certain disreputable journalists and others in this country have been accusing Mrs. Pankhurst of coming here to make money—repeating a lie that was told in England—it is well to state now that Mrs. Pankhurst was a rich woman when she began her fight to get justice for other women.

She has sacrificed her fortune and impoverished herself in this fight. Before she was last sent to jail in England, as the trial went on, the usual cowardly lie was repeated in court—that her agitation was based upon a desire for profit.

Please observe how Mrs. Pankhurst answered that:

Now I hate speaking of personal matters, but many suggestions have been made not only here but even in the House of Commons that I have made money out of this movement, and as evidence, that I own a motor car. I own no motor car, and never have owned one. The union to which I belong owns a motor car for the ordinary propaganda work of the organization. I would say in passing that it is very difficult in this country for a woman to own a motor car, unless she has inherited property. There is only one trade that I know of in which women earn enough to buy motor cars, and that is the abominable trade of ministering to the vicious pleasures of rich men.

My part in the movement has cost me a considerable portion of my income, because I had to surrender a very important part of my income in order to be free to do what I considered was my duty in this movement. It is hardly fitting for someone to bring suggestions of this kind into so serious a matter.

Now I want to address myself to my defense. I pleaded not guilty because in the indictment I am described as having "wickedly and maliciously incited women to do certain acts." I am not a wicked or a malicious person, neither am I any of the women who responded, if they did yield to my incitement.

She might well, in all probability have said, to some of her judges and jurors, that THEY knew the truth of what she had said. And that there was many a man in England, rich, powerful, filled with great contempt for Mrs. Pankhurst and the suffrage movement, who knew what it was to buy an automobile in the way that Mrs. Pankhurst describes.

The most powerful passage in her speech—and that which the judge with typical cowardice tried to suppress, was Mrs. Pankhurst's determined revelation of the character of certain judges in England, chosen to try women, and to punish them for the FAULT of men.

Among the judges who inflicted trivial punishments on men that ruined girls, one at least had been found dead in a vile den—a white slave establishment. The judge, try as he might, could not suppress Mrs. Pankhurst or her statement. For she is a FIGHTER, and in court or out, and in spite of any judge, she will have her say. That is why the judges don't LIKE her.

Thus she began on the subject so difficult for a woman of her character to discuss.

I want to say a few words to you, very serious words—having dealt with the law itself—about the administration of it. Now, my lord, it is a very difficult thing to do, but I must find courage to do it, because for me and for thousands of women whom I feel represent here to-day this is a burning question. The law is inadequate as to punishment of women, but in addition we are satisfied that the administration of the law is very imperfect. I was a very young woman when my attention was called to this in a very painful way.

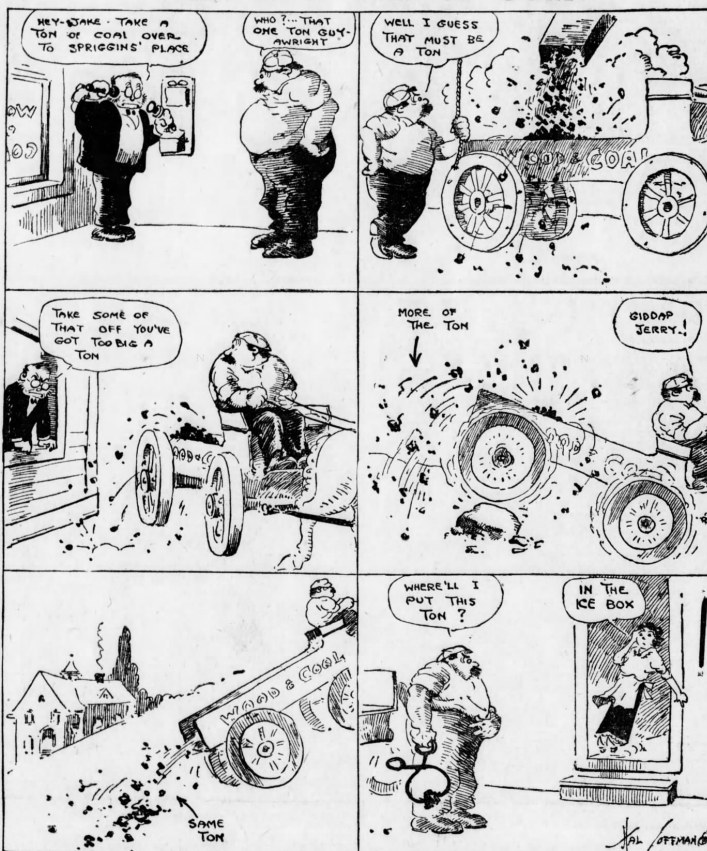

The judge who listened to Mrs. Pankhurst knew well what was coming, and interrupted her saying: "Mrs. Pankhurst, I am very loath to interrupt, but there must be some limit of propriety observed by women in your position. I must

To this Mrs. Pankhurst replied: "My lord, I can allow you, as a judge, to indicate what is decorum on my part. It must be perfectly obvious to you and to the court that I am not saying these things in any light spirit. After all you, my lord, and the gentlemen of the jury, are probably going, if I am convicted, to send me to what in all probability will be my death, and I ask you to indulge me."

Man and Woman: Which Is the Superior?

Each Excels, as Each Fails, in Certain Particulars; Both Are Necessary to Make Up Humanity; to Augue Further Is Futile.

By DOROTHY DIX

A CORRESPONDENT writes: "Will you please discuss the subject, 'Is Man Superior to Woman?' A neighbor of mine, a foreigner, contends that man is superior to woman. He holds that he is far superior to his wife, yet she does twice as much work as he does. She runs both his home and his store, and it is her energy and intelligence that have made his business a success."

To argue about whether woman is superior to man, or man is superior to woman, is as futile as to discuss whether winter is better than summer, or rain or sunshine is more advantageous to growing crops.

Each excels in certain particulars, each fails in certain respects, and both are necessary to make up humanity. Take them by and large, and men and women are cut off of pretty much the same piece of goods. As Mrs. Power truly said: "Women are foolish—God made them that way to match the men."

Vast Majority of Men Think Man Superior to Woman.

Undoubtedly the vast majority of men believe, on insufficient evidence, that they are far superior to women, and that the mere accident of sex is a sort of genius in itself, so that anybody who is entitled to wear trousers is by reason of that fact more intelligent, with a broader vision and a saner judgment than even the most gifted creature doomed by nature to skirts.

A few women also hold of this view, and a great number profess to subscribe to it because experience has taught them that man is woman's superior in at least one quality—vanity. They have found out that the easiest way to work a man is to sit at his feet and wait him out, and tell him how big, and wise, and strong, and handsome he is, and that a poor, miserable worm of the dust is a mere female.

It is these cheerful workers among women, aided and abetted by the fact that the law gives men the right to rule over women, and until lately has given them also her property, that has fostered man's belief in his superiority to woman.

But why, goodness only knows, because it is woman who takes care of man at every stage of the game, from the time when she washes out his little eyes when he's born, to the day when she closes them in death. And all between times she helps him, she braces him up, she tugs him into the right path, and keeps him going. Many a big and successful man is really a little inferior man made by a superior woman.

Men have greater physical endurance than women. Yet any doctor will tell you which bears pain better, a man or a woman. Let a man get a toothache, or a headache, and he howls to heaven about it, and waits doctors and trained nurses and everybody in the family to be on the jump waiting on him, while there are thousands and thousands of women who never draw a breath that isn't fraught with pain and who go uncomplainingly about their daily duties without even mentioning how they feel.

Undoubtedly Men Have Shown More Genius Than Women.

Men are braver than women. There are even women who are afraid of mice, but every woman who bears a child goes smilingly forth to look into the face of death by torture. Only the exceptional man ever has his courage put to the test that practically every woman experiences, and when he doesn't flinch they call him a hero, but woman's courage is so common that we never notice it.

And women have far more moral courage than men. Men are afraid of shame, of ridicule, of having the finger of scorn pointed at them. A man turns a disgraced daughter out of doors. He divorces a drunken wife, but a woman stands by her own no matter how low they fall. It is women, and not men, who are waiting outside of the penitentiary doors to take the freed convicts home.

Men are the financiers of the world, but the average woman can make a dollar go twice as far as a man can when it comes to spending, and in those families where the wife is the master you will nearly always find prosperity. It is also notable that in a business where both men and women are employed, although the women receive a smaller salary than the men, they will have a little bank account, and the men are borrowing money.

Men have better health, as a rule, than women do, yet when the head of a big firm which employed both male and female labor was asked if he did not find that the women lost a lot of time on account of sickness, replied: "Not so much as the men do from drunkenness."

A man is the official head of the family, yet it is men who desert their little children and leave them to starve. It is men who commit suicide when life gets over hard. You hardly ever hear of a woman abandoning her helpless little children to the cold mercy of the world.

Undoubtedly men have displayed more genius than women. They have written the big books, painted the great pictures, made the marvelous inventions, yet what man has ever done anything so wonderful as the creation of a man? A woman does that. Great men seldom beget great sons, but every great man has a great mother.

And so you might argue the question endlessly as to which is the superior man or woman. It is, in reality, a personal question. Some men are superior to some women, and some women are superior to some men. But they average up about the same percentage of wisdom and folly, of weakness and strength, of nobility and meanness. If it is any pleasure to a man to think he is superior, let him do so, but let him enjoy it. She, and generally the neighbors, know better.

The Judge Found Dead in a Disreputable Dive.

But the honorable and noble judge, who thought it perfectly proper to criticize and JAIL a woman for demanding her rights, thought it highly improper that the woman in public court should tell the truth about a judge sitting in judgment on women. He replied:

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 24.—An uninterrupted procession of honorees are being showered upon former Pres. Roosevelt in Brazil.

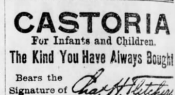

Last night he heard his speech on the international relations of the United States.

The Panama Canal, he said, would lead to closer commercial relations between North and South America. The canal would give the United States more benefits than would the Panama Canal. He referred to the interference of the United States in San Domingo, and to the canal from Cuba as measures destined to work to the advantage of those nations and to the spirit confidence in them.

The story of "Salome," the opera departs somewhat from the Biblical story, but there is sufficient of an analogy for everyone to feel some thing of a familiarity with the stage production. And then, too, it is in English. However much the critic may rail at the impracticability of opera in English, it affords a satisfac-

Antonette Le Brun and Lydia Sturtevant sang the parts of Salome and Herodias, respectively, with power and with appeal.

Mlle. Sophia Benucci was the dancer of the cast, and she indeed danced with all the abandon and suggestion that is supposed to be the essential of the "Salome" dance. And at that there was considerable of an artist.
